

The Black Death in Florence (7.6.7)

Background:

When historians seek to understand events of the past, they read many primary and secondary sources. By doing this, they work to corroborate sources, hoping to find several documents that offer the same account and make a stronger case for what happened in the past.

Prompt:

Which presents a more reliable account of the Black Death in Florence?

Task:

In a well thought out response:

- State a claim in response to the prompt, using the prompt as a sentence stem.
- Support your claim using at least three pieces of evidence from the documents.
  - Be sure to explain why the evidence you selected supports your claim.