

Strengths

Question: What engagement and communication strategies are working well to keep stakeholders informed on distance learning?

PAC members emphasized the importance of frequent communication, especially weekly updates from school and District leaders and text outreach.

In terms of delivery methods for these strategies, PAC members also stressed the value of school-level communication.

Recommendations

Question: What other communication and engagement strategies could we be using as a District?

- Communication strategies
 - Phone calls
 - Training notices via email and text (not just via website)
 - Share written transcript of Superintendent's updates*
 - Note that the Superintendent's Update transcripts are already posted online*
- Engagement strategies, leveraging parent leaders
 - Partner with school PTAs to help disseminate information
 - Local leadership/SSC councilmembers directly engaging with stakeholders
 - PAC and other central committees can engage with school sites and local districts in disseminating information
 - Having parent leaders engaging directly with parents at the school sites
 - District-facilitated meetings between parents and UTLA
 - Train parents in the legislative process, and then take them to Sacramento with staff
